FRESH OUTRAGES EVERY NIGHT

Barn Burning Now Seems to be The Order of The Night.

4 BARNS DESTROYED.

Montgomery And Logan Counties The Latest Scenes of Depredations.

Clarksville, Tenn., Jan. 30.—The Night Riders are still pursuing W. E. Wall, a prominent citizen of this county, who has already suffered seriously from their hands.

Last night two big barns on his place near Fredonia was burned to the ground. There was no tobacco in the buildings.

Last year Mr. Wall, who is a non-association man, was the victim of several outrages. He received many threats, his plantbeds were scraped and his general merchandise store at Fredonia was burned to the ground.

IN LOGAN COUNTY

A Regulation Raid is Made And Two Barns Burned.

Adairville, Ky., Jan. 29.—Night Riders visited this community last night, called at the residence of R. J. Burr, one mile west of this city, and after failing to induce him to come out of his home and put himself at their mercy, proceeded to terrify the family by a general fusillade, after which they applied the torch to two large tobacco barns, burning them with their contents. The loss is about $2,000, with no insurance. The barns burned contained a large quantity of tobacco and farming machinery. The tobacco was the property of Press Strickland a tenant of Burr, who is not a member of the Dark Tobacco Growers' Protective Association.

When Mr. Burr saw the flames he attempted to leave the house to put out the fire. He was ordered back at the muzzles of guns.

The Night Riders, who were masked, wore a white cloth on their right shoulders. After completing the work of destruction they fired another volley and rode away.

MASKED MEN

Pour Out Whisky in Local Option County.

Cadiz, Ky., Jan. 30.—A barrel of whisky and several bottles of the same liquor were broken, and nine cases of beer and four gallons of wine were destroyed by a band of about 20 masked men at Golden Pond, in Trigg county last Saturday night about 8:30 o'clock.

The liquors belonged to John Collins, who is alleged to have been conducting a blind tiger in Trigg county in violation of the local option law now in force.

Collins was in his place of business at the time and he was covered by pistols and held under guard while the destruction was accomplished.

Threats in Bath.

Owingsville, Tenn., Jan. 30.—Five of the most prominent tobacco growers in the county have received warnings not to sell or move any more tobacco under the penalty of having it destroyed.

SUDDEN DEATH OF MRS. TAYLOR

Retired Tuesday Night Perfectly Well And Died Friday Morning.

WAS 76 YEARS OF AGE.

Leaves Large Connection in City And County But no Children.

Miss Lizzie Wood Taylor, widow of the late Dan'l M. Taylor, died suddenly at the home of Mr. Eugene Wood, on South Main street yesterday morning at 5:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Taylor, who roomed with her sister, Miss Sue Wood, in the home of their nephew, Eugene Wood, retired Thursday night as apparently in perfect health. At five o'clock Friday morning, when Miss Wood awoke, she heard Mrs. Taylor breathing quite hard and in a few moments after she had expired. Heart failure was the cause of her death.

Mrs. Taylor was a daughter of Bartholomew T. Wood, one of the first settlers of Christian county and owned most, if not quite all the land which Hopkinsville now stands back in the early days of the city. She came here with her father from North Carolina. After having studied in the private schools of the day and begun working for himself, in 1819 he married Miss Nancy Saffarans. He was for many years deputy clerk of the county court and knew almost every man in the county. By strict economy and tireless labor he attained a large competence and long before his death he decided to the county the land on which the court house, old clerks' office and the city court room now stands. He was a member of the Christian church. Eleven children blessed Mr. and Mrs. Wood's life, all of whom grew to manhood and womanhood with the exception of two before Mr. Wood's death, his wife surviving him but a few weeks.

Mrs. Taylor is survived by two brothers, Messrs. George W. and John Wood and her sister, Miss Sue Wood. She leaves a large connection in this and Todd counties. She was a widow for many years and her two children died in their youth. In early life she united with the Christian church and was always a faithful attendant on its services. Possessed of considerable property, she lived in ease and comfort, dispensing charity and doing good to all with whom she came in contact.

Funeral services will be held at the Christian church today at 2:30 o'clock Interment in Riverside Cemetery.

NEW STORE.

The Witt Co. Opens for Business Today.

One of the latest candidates for public patronage is The Witt Co., which throws open its doors to the public to-day in the Elks' building, on Ninth street near Main.

The company is incorporated. Hiram Thomas is President, Robert E. Witt is Secretary and Treasurer. The building in which the new company begins business has been remodeled inside and out, the fixtures are unexcelled by any store in the city and there is an air of harmony about the store that attracts one when he first enters.

The business to be conducted is that of gent's general furnishers. A more elegant stock of gent's furnishing goods has never been opened up here. Everything is of the latest style, the best of material and just what it is represented to be, and all who want the latest and best can find it there. The selections were made with the view of supplying all with what the good dresser needs and at prices that will give everyone a chance to be "in it" so far as style goes.

The business will be conducted under the management of Messrs. William Barker and Robert E. Witt, and it goes without saying that everyone will receive the most courteous attention. They will gladly welcome all who call.

Mr. F. G. Bate announces to his old friends and patrons that he has moved his merchant tailoring establishment into the rear room of The Witt Company store and is prepared to serve them as promptly and efficiently as of yore.

WANTS KINDNESS IN GREETING.

Post Objects to Salutation Without the Proper Spirit.

The poet was quite cast down. A friend met him and asked after his health, and this is what he said: "Why do people persist in saying 'Good Morning' when the spirit of Good Morning is not there? Why not give a blow? Then one could offer some resistance to this Monday morning salutation from people who care not whether the morning is good or not; who only want to thrust themselves upon you. Better, far, a silent entrance than a greeting from which the life has fled. What does 'Good Morning' mean unless it carries sympathy? So many 'Good Mornings,' and not one little bit of kindness—how hard and metallic most of them are! The first one I got was from a gruff man with a harsh voice. He has set all my nerves to jangling, why could he not leave me alone? Then, in a moment, a girl came and bent over my shoulder. Her voice was sweet and womanly. Her 'Good Morning' soothed me. One day I came along Broadway. The memory of the 'Good Morning' I received will never leave me. I looked into eyes upon which the dew of the morning had fallen—out of which the light of heaven had streamed. It made the whole day different. I believe I could have smiled back at the gruff man if I had been so greeted to-day." "But, my good poet," said his friend, "I have not seen that man for me? Have I set your nerves to jangling?" "God be thanked, no! You are the first man I've met whom I don't feel like murdering. Here, give me your hand, let me shake it again, and get into sympathy with my kind." "What an odd fellow," said his friend, as he watched the poet walk away.

WHAT SHE WOULD HAVE SAID.

Lucky for Poet That American Woman Was Not His Spouse.

A witty and popular American lady was recently dining with a literary society in London, when, some one started a conversation about the methods of working adopted by authors. Among the many instances given was that of a well-known poet, who, it was said, was in the habit of writing at night and in the early morning, and who was wont to rouse his wife and exclaim about four o'clock: "Maria, get up; I have thought of a good word!" Immediately on receiving this signal, the poet's obedient helpmate would arise and make a proper note of the thought of word. About an hour after a new inspiration would seize upon the bard, and he would then call out: "Maria, get up, get up! I've thought of a better word!" The company generally listened to the story with admiration, but the bright-eyed American remarked: "Well, if he'd been my husband, I should have replied: 'Alpheus, get up; I've thought of a bad word!'"—London Tit-Bits.

Red Tape in France.

There is now lying in the Paris morgue a mummy that is the cause of a dispute between the police, who insist that it is an unidentified corpse, and the owner, who is quite sure that it is a piece of furniture. The dispute is the sequel to a fire in a flat. The firemen found the mummy amid the ruins of a cupboard. It was placed in a sack and conveyed to the morgue "for identification." The owner of the flat has done everything possible to get it back. But the police reply to all representations with the question: "Is a mummy a corpse—yes or no?" "Yes," says the owner, "but—" "There is no but," declare the police: "A mummy is a corpse, and this is the place for corpses."

Shorter Dinners.

Nothing has done more to shorten the over-elaborate dinner than the custom of restaurant dining. In a cafe one feels easy at inviting people to steak with two vegetables, a salad and cheese and coffee. At home oysters and soup, entrees and dessert would also have been deemed necessary. So many people dine in restaurants now that this simplicity is creeping into the cheerfully selected little home dinner. One may invite even one's formal acquaintances to dinner without taxing, as someone puts it, either "the limitations of the cook, the hostess, the family purse, or the patience of the guests."

But Seeing Is Believing.

Three business men of Chicago, one of whom is said to be rather "close" in financial matters, were on their way to luncheon one day, when they were stopped by several sisters of charity, soliciting alms. Each one of the three men contributed something; but when one of the sisters inadvertently solicited from the "close" man a second time, he protested politely that he had already done his part. As the three continued on their way, one of the sisters in the ear of the other, "I saw him, but I did not see him." "I saw him," the other whispered back, "but I didn't see him." "I didn't see him," the first sister replied.

Very Important.

"Everybody nowadays reads his newspaper," said Mr. J. H. Parker, querulously. "The army has a paper, the police, the railroad men, the theater employees—everybody has some kind of special edition." "Pardon me," answered the soldier, "I know he was talking his trouble. What I want to know is this: What is the use of having any plain citizen clothes at all? Great Scott, now there must be something for the detectives to disguise themselves in."

CRUDE METHODS OF SPINNING.

Which Were Long in Displacing the Spindle and Distaff.

The invention of the art of spinning was ascribed by the ancients to Minerva, the goddess of wisdom, says a writer in The Housekeeper. The date, 1600 B. C., is given as that of the spinning of the art in Greece, under the direction of the king Arcadia, but pictured inscriptions on Egyptian monuments show that the use of the spindle and distaff was known in that country much earlier. The first distaff was simply a stick, around which the fiber to be spun was loosely coiled, held in the left hand; the spindle was a sort of top set in motion by a twist of the hand, the fiber passing between the finger and thumb of the right hand. This invention was improved upon in the course of time by placing the spindle in a frame and making it revolve by mechanical action of the hand or foot in connection with a wheel or treadle—thus giving the true spinning wheel. The first recorded use of this was in the early years of the sixteenth century, but it was probably made and used long before this. The first spinning jenny, a machine working eight spindles, was invented in 1767.

LOST ART OF LETTER WRITING.

Men and Women of To-Day Have No Time for Such Occupation.

It is a well-known fact that nobody writes letters nowadays. It is true we spend a vast deal of time at our writing table, that we consume untold quantities of ink and nibs while our stationery bill is by no means the most modest item of our ever-increasing expenditure. But we neither write nor receive letters. The utmost we do is to "dash off notes" in answer to invitations, to "scribble a few lines" of congratulation or sympathy, the use may be, with a friend, to express briefly but forcibly our satisfaction with our dressmaker, or our surprise at our milliner's account. As for our absent relatives, on the rare occasions when we remember their existence at all, we send them our love on a post card with a few details about the weather, ending in "tearing hearts" with the hope that they will write soon and tell us all their news. Of course, they never do, which is just as well, as if they did we should in all probability never have time to wade through their letters.—The Inconsequence, in Ladies' Field.

Devotees of the Weed.

Each year the people of the United States smoke nearly 8,000,000 cigars, cheroots, stogies and all-tobacco cigarettes. 3,500,000,000 cigarettes with paper wrappers and consume 300,000,000 pounds of smoking and chewing tobacco and snuff. Every day we smoke 22,000,000 cigars and 10,000,000 cigarettes, and either smoke or chew 500 tons of tobacco, all of which cost $800,000. Every minute of the 16 hours a day that we are awake we make ourselves poorer by $800—for 25,000 cigars, 10,000 cigarettes and a half a ton of plug and fine cut. It is estimated that there are 15,000,000 devotees of the weed, or about as many smokers as voters. This estimate is based on the fact that one person in each six of our population is a puff of smoke.

Mahometan Graves.

The Mahometans may be uncertain of many things in life, but in death he is sure of one thing—that his grave will never be disturbed on any account whatever. With a view to removing the slightest chance of any grave being defiled, a cypress tree is planted immediately after the interment, which makes the Moslem cemeteries resemble forests. In the island of Timor burials are much delayed owing to the necessity of gathering funds for the burial feast, which in most cases amounts to a fortune. After the feast, the burial, directly the grave is filled in, a young cypress tree is planted on it.

When He Wore His Silk Hat.

"I was spending my vacation a couple of summers ago in a little Vermont village and my favorite loafing place was in front of the 'Towa Grocery' talking to the general grocer," says a traveler. "We were sitting in front on a couple of egg crates one afternoon when an old man wearing a silk hat passed on the other side of the street. 'I don't see how them fellows wear them hats,' observed my friend, the grocer. 'Now, I've had one for 30 years—left to me by my father—and I've never worn it but twice—once to a funeral and once on a camp trip!'"

High Character Counts.

High character counts in this, as in all other communities, good men die in the prime of life, and in the midst of multifarious activities, and the representative men of the city hasten to show their appreciation of his life-work for no man of brains and conscience works merely for himself. He helps build up the community, and raises the standard of conduct for all other men—Mexican Herald.

A Proper Kick.

"Well," demanded the warden of the prison, "what are you kicking about now?" "I'm kicking about this striped suit," complained the new convict. "All the silly dudes are going for stripes now, and it's a shame to make us wear 'em."

Extremes.

She—"There is one thing I cannot understand about football!" He—"Yes!" She—"Why a game so named should need so much head work!"

No one talking some germs have an awful grip on life.

"My wife is almost always in full control of her temper."
"But how about it when you fail to fire up the furnace?"
"Oh, then she fires me up."

Reporter: Do you see any bright side of these foreign matrimonial alliances?

"Mr. Davis has never had an occasion to use Doan's Kidney Pills or any other kidney medicine since he recommended them in the summer of 1903. For years prior to that time he had been an almost constant sufferer from kidney trouble. He had intense pains in his back which extended to his shoulders and annoyed him all day. They prevented him from sleeping during the night. The relief he obtained from the use of Doan's Kidney Pills which he got at

L. A. Johnson & Co.'s drug store was surprising. They acted differently from any remedy he ever tried and he has never had a recurrence of the trouble since using this valuable remedy four years ago. It speaks pretty strongly for Doan's Kidney Pills that cured him."

The Business Outlook.

The restoration of confidence in the banks, and the free circulation once more of the country's currency, have given a wholly different aspect to the economic conditions from that which was prevalent in November and December. The money stringency stopped the movement of wheat, corn and cotton from the farmers to the markets. It stopped the wheels of factories everywhere. It closed many mines, brought building operations to a standstill, and threw hundreds of thousands of men out of work. It crowded the steerages of east-bound steamers with scores of thousands of workmen who chose to return with their savings to their native lands until the demand for labor should call them back here again. But the country is fundamentally prosperous, and in most sections there is evident a gradual resumption of activity and a great deal of confidence as respects the future. Quite apart from the transient currency panic, there has been in a widespread process of what is called liquidation. Loans have been called in and credits are undergoing readjustment upon a hard-times basis. There will be a good many business failures yet to come; and for a year, perhaps two years, there will in many lines of business be a comparatively dull showing. It will be a period for the practice of thrift and the homely economic virtues, in order that resources, both private and public, may be used for the best possible results. There will be a very sharp reduction in luxurious expenditures and a corresponding increase in the amount of new capital that can be devoted to business undertakings.—From "The Progress of the World," in the American Review of Reviews for February.

CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEE

Primary Will be Held to Nominate Candidate For Congress.

7 MEMBERS PRESENT.

May 9th Decided as Day When Candidate Will be Selected.

The Call.

At a meeting of the Democratic District Committee for the Second Congressional District of Kentucky, held pursuant to a call of the Hon. R. B. Bradley, chairman of said committee, in the city of Madisonville, Ky., January 23, 1908, the following call was issued:

It is hereby ordered that a primary election be held in all of the precincts of the several counties composing the Second Congressional District on Saturday, May 9, 1908, for the purpose of nominating a Democratic candidate for Congress in said district to be voted for at the regular November election, 1908. Said primary election shall be held under the provisions of the Kentucky statutes regulating primary elections, and between such hours as regular state elections are held.

No candidate in said primary shall be allowed to select as a device the device of the Democratic party.

Each candidate desiring to be voted for at said primary election shall on or before 2 o'clock p. m., March 30th, 1908, file with the chairman of the district committee his written request to have his name placed on the ballot for said primary election and shall state whether or not he desires his name to be printed under any device, and if so he shall designate the device so desired by him.

An assessment of $25.00 is hereby fixed for the purpose of defraying the expenses of said election to be paid by the candidates, and each candidate shall on or before 2 o'clock p. m., March 30, 1908, pay to the chairman of said district committee his proportionate part of the expenses for holding the said primary election.

The right to vote at said election shall be limited and restricted to those who affiliate in good faith with the Democratic party and further pledge their support to the nominee of said election, and possess the qualifications prescribed by statute, provided, however, that persons under the age of twenty-one years on the date of said election, but who will have reached said age by the date of the November election, 1908, and who wish to affiliate with the Democratic party and will pledge themselves to support the nominee of said primary election, shall be entitled to vote.

Should there be but one candidate to comply with the requirements of this call, there shall be no primary election held, but the District Committee shall meet upon call of the chairman on April 27, 1908, at 2 o'clock p. m., at Henderson, Ky., and declare the persons complying with the requirements of this call the nominee of the Democratic party for Congress in the Second Congressional District of Kentucky, and the chairman of said committee shall return to him his entrance fee.

The candidate receiving the largest number of legal and qualified votes cast at said election shall be declared the nominee of the Democratic party of the Second district for representative in Congress.

The District Committee will meet in the city of Henderson, Ky., at 2 o'clock p. m., on Friday, the 15th day of May, 1908, for the purpose of canvassing returns and issuing certificate of nomination.

In testimony whereof witness our hands this 2d day of January, 1908. R. B. BRADLEY, Chairman. SPALDING TRAFIMOFF, Sec.

Died In Pembroke

W. H. May died at the home of his son, Robert May, on Duffy street Monday afternoon after a long illness. Death was due to ailments incident to old age. Mr. May was a native Tennesseean, but for the past few months had made his home with his son here. The remains were shipped Tuesday to South Tunnel near Gallatin, Tenn., where the funeral and interment occurred.—Journal.

Frank Deshan, whom Messrs. Nixon & Zimmermann are touring this season in a farewell production of Willard Spencer's "Miss Bob White," is a great believer in novelties, and in casting the Spencer opera this season, has given a genuine touch of oddity to two of its characters. The first, Maggie, formerly played as a sweet, demure, little lass, has been toned down to a gawky, awkward Sis Hopkins individual that convulses her audiences nightly. In fact, so clever was Connie Mac's performance of the eccentric role that the Philadelphia papers, one and all, make special mention of the innovation. "Miss Bob White" is the bill at Holland's Opera House Feb. 19.

OTT'S LECTURE

Was a Big Success at the Tabernacle.

A large and appreciative audience greeted Edward Amherst Ott at the Tabernacle last Wednesday evening. He gave our people what is said to be the best of his lectures, "Sour Grapes." It was his first appearance here, and that he scored a big success is putting it mildly. He dealt with a variety of the questions of the day—why we have an army of criminals, the divorce laws and the causes of divorce, environment the making of men in the home, the sanctity and responsibilities of the marriage relation, how to make people happy, etc. The lecture was fine from start to finish, and had just enough flavoring of wit and sarcasm, to prevent it being at all prosaic or too learned. Mr. Ott is a genius and is worth hearing repeatedly.

ABANDONMENT

Is Charged in This Suit for Divorce.

Mary Alver Anderson has filed suit here for divorce from J. Hubert Anderson, and for the custody of their two children. Plaintiff alleges abandonment. The petitioner states that they were married in Gallatin, Tenn., in July, 1900, and lived together until August, 1906. The defendant is now a resident of Leitchfield.

GOOD SHOWING

Made by Police Force During January.

An inspection of the slate at police headquarters yesterday showed that the police were kept pretty busy during the month of January. There were 63 arrests during the month, an average of two a day. The fines amounted to $472.

One Hundred in Line.

The funeral of Rev. J. W. Venable was held Thursday evening at three o'clock, the services being conducted by Rev. Geo. C. Abbitt. The Odd Fellows attended in a body, nearly one hundred members being in the line that escorted the remains to the church and the cemetery. The ceremonies of the order he loved so well were conducted at the grave.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Crenshaw, of Howell, have the sympathy of their many friends in the loss of their two-year old daughter, which occurred last Wednesday. The little girl was a victim of pneumonia of only a few days duration. The burial took place in the Fox burying ground Thursday.

A Tip For Fat Women.

In a few years that excess fat of yours will become a habit—impossible to break. Better take time by the forelock and reduce now in a natural way if you would keep intact the beautiful symmetry of 20 through the trying years of middle age. Go to the drugist and ask him for one half ounce Marmola, one half ounce Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic, and three and a half ounces Syrup Simplex. Take a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime. Mix them at home if you wish, but see that the Marmola comes to you in a sealed package.

This mixture makes firm fleshed, well-formed women out of flabby, shapeless ones. It stimulates their stomachs to burn up the food fats instead of allowing them to gather at the waste line. Without disturbing the diet or requiring exercise to help it out it dissolves the fat away just where needed the most. It has been known to melt away hundreds as much as 10 ounces a day without causing a single wrinkle.

HOUSE WORK

Thousands of American women in our homes are daily sacrificing their lives to duty. In order to keep the home neat and pretty, the children well dressed and tidy, women overdo. A female weakness or displacement is often brought on and they suffer in silence, drifting along from bad to worse, knowing well that they ought to have help to overcome the pains and aches which daily make life a burden. It is to these faithful women that comes as a boon and a blessing, as it did to Mrs. F. Ellsworth, of Mayville, N. Y., and to Mrs. W. P. Boyd, of Beaver Falls, Pa., who say:

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND
"I was not able to do my own work, owing to the female trouble from which I suffered. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helped me wonderfully, and I am so well that I can do as big a day's work as I ever did. I wish every sick woman would try it."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.
For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?
Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

SMALL VOTE

In Favor of Wendling Making a Date.

Before the lecture at the Tabernacle Wednesday night all persons in the audience who would promise to stand by the Manager of the Tabernacle in securing Gen. R. Wendling a good attendance were asked to rise from their seats. Only about half a dozen stood up. The tickets of admission were to be 50 and 75 cents, with a reduction to the schools and colleges. Mr. Wendling has a new lecture on Gen. Robt. E. Lee, which he has been ten years in preparing. It is one of his best. Mr. Wendling is greatly admired here as a lecturer, but doubtless the stringency of the times forbade many to make a date.

Passed Away Last Thursday Night, Aged 89.

Mrs. Caroline Griffin died Thursday night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Belle Lacy, on Bryan Avenue, of the infirmities of old age. She had been in failing health for some time and her death was not unexpected. Had she lived until March she would have attained her 89th year.

Mrs. Griffin came to the city from Kirkmanville sixteen years ago to make her home with her daughter. She was the widow of the late P. B. Griffin, of Kirkmanville, and is survived by four children: Messrs. Phil Griffin, of Bruebsaker, Ill., and P. B. Griffin, of Kirkmanville; her two daughters are Mrs. Martha Wells, of Kirkmanville, and Mrs. Belle Lacy, of this city. She was a member of the Christian church from early youth. The remains will be taken to Kirkmanville today for interment in the Griffin family burying ground.

WEIGHING OF MAILS.

LIBERTY OR DEATH

HOW PATRICK HENRY DELIVERED GREAT ORATION.

Physical Impression Declared to Have Been as Strong as the Intellectual—Stirred His Hearers to Madness.

The most overwhelming of Patrick Henry's great orations is that which he pronounced before the convention which met in St. John's church at Richmond, March 23, 1775, writes London Orr, in Munsey's. Already the mutterings of war were so distinct that Henry, instead of concealing the facts, declared that war was even then on foot.

"We must fight!" he said. "An appeal to arms and to the God of hosts is all that is left us!"

Curiously enough, even of this oration there is no authentic record. Certain sentences, certain striking phrases, were remembered by many who were there; but the speech as given by William Wirt, himself an eloquent and brilliant orator. He supplied the gaps in what his informants repeated to him, piecing out their recollections with his own vivid fancy. But the spirit of Henry flames all through it, and to Henry may be safely ascribed such burning sentences as these:

"I have but one lamp by which my feet are guided, and that is the lamp of experience. I know of no way of judging the future but by the past."

"Three millions of people armed, in the holy cause of liberty, and in such a country as that which we possess, are invincible by any force which our enemy can send against us."

"Gentlemen may cry peace, peace, but there is no peace!"

"Is life so dear or peace so sweet, as to be purchased at the price of chains and slavery? Forbid it, Almighty God! I know not what course others may take; but as for me, give me liberty or give me death!"

As in the case of all orators of the very first rank, the physical impression made by Henry was as strong as the intellectual. There exists a description of his appearance while delivering this last great speech—a description that came from one who was present at the time. It tells how when Henry rose and claimed the floor, there was an "unearthly fire burning in his eyes. He commenced speaking calmly, but his smothered excitement began more and more to play upon his features and thrill in the tones of his voice. The tendons of his neck stood out white and rigid like whiplashes. * * * Finally, his pale face and glaring eyes became terrible to look upon." The witness of the scene who gave this vivid picture said that he himself sat and shivered with excitement. When the orator had finished his speech, "it seemed as if a word from him would have led to any wild explosion of violence. Men looked beside themselves."

The Wisest Ohio Mut.

"No more henchmen dogs for me," said the returning vacationer for the wise mutt I met out in Mansfield, Ohio, last week.

"While there I was visiting a brother, who is a physician. We were bowling up the main street hill in his motor car, when an old dog leaped along beside the car as though he belonged there.

"The doctor had to stop at the corner drug store, and when he pulled up his machine the mutt climbed aboard. While the doctor was in the store I discovered that the dog had a nail in his foot, and was seeking medical attention."

"After the nail had been extracted and the wound medicated, the patient gave a few yelps for his fee and ran back toward home."

"When a New York dog that can beat that for intelligence"—New York Globe.

Undiplomatic.

It was a quiet afternoon in the emergency ward at the Little Palace hotel, according to the San Francisco Chronicle. George, the head nurse, who dispenses first aid to the suffering, was greeting Gus, who had dropped in from the Fairmount to exhibit his new straw hat.

"I think it's a beauty," remarked George approvingly. "Dollar and a half!"

"Und more 'an that," replied Gus proudly. "Two dollars."

"I tell you, Gus, I am a good friend to you; maybe some Sunday you lend it to me, eh? I like to call on Judge Cook by his ranch in Sonoma county."

"Und maybe you break it, eh?"

"Den I bay you what it's worth."

"Pay me 10?"

"O, no; it's a second-hand hat after you wear it. I pay you $1, Gus."

"You say me nothing. I doan lend that hat."

Women in Public Life.

There are, it is estimated, something like 2,000 women on various publicly elected bodies in England and Wales at the present time, and of this number about 1200 are members of boards of guardians. Of the 644 unions in England and Wales 407 now have women guardians, the proportion of women to men being one in every 21 or 22. In London there are 120 women guardians distributed among 31 unions. The new qualification bill will open up 417 more public bodies to women—namely, 228 town councils, 63 county councils and 25 London borough councils.

SOME WEAK POINTS

COMMERCIAL CLUBS SOMETIMES MAKE BLUNDERS.

STARTING NEW ENTERPRISES

Bonuses Often Given and Little Benefit Gained by the Towns That Give—Protecting Established Industries.

Within the past few years a commercial club organization fever has taken hold of many towns in the western country. It is a kind of good fever, and quite often, like other of the less harmless fevers that afflict physically, passes away and doesn't make much difference with the town's general health.

"Townbuilding is much like erecting a good bridge. It is essential that a good foundation be laid. Natural conditions have much to do with it. Cities and towns spring up where there is a good cause for their existence. Artificial means may be employed for "booming" purposes, but unless there be something substantial and lasting all the booming that can be done will not result in the accomplishment of permanent good. The average rural town receives its principal support from the business given it by the contiguous territory. The trade of a limited section of country will sustain a comparative number of business establishments. If a town possesses natural advantages, location, etc., for certain lines of manufacturing, so much the better. It would be foolish, as have been demonstrated in a number of western towns, to commence the manufacture of cottons, or silks, or furniture, when the raw material must be transported from a great distance, and also the fuel for power.

Still, if a town assumes any great proportions, there must be industries to give the people occupation. The judicious investment of capital in canning factories, in paper mills, in glue works and a few other enterprises, if these enterprises are rightly conducted, might prove a valuable factor in some of the western towns.

When a commercial club is organized, generally efforts are made to secure some industry for the town that will give its people employment and which will bring new residents to the town. Quite an amount of money is expended, which are located in other places to relocate. It has been the general experience of towns which have made efforts along these lines that a concern that asks very much encouragement in the way of ready cash, is hardly worth bothering with and is likely to prove a failure.

Another factor that the average commercial club does not take in consideration is that it is better to build up institutions already located than to encourage new ones of doubtful success. A manufacturing concern is only valuable to the town as a means of placing a greater amount of money in circulation. The greater the payroll, the better for the town. But it matters not how big the amount is that is distributed among workers on a Saturday night, it results in little good to the town if it is sent to some other town for needed supplies.

Commercial club members should keep in mind that it is far better to keep means of keeping money earned by farmers and laborers from being sent to large cities for goods, than it is to have new concerns started. If there be a few hundred dollars a day sent from the place to mail-order houses, it would be far better to prevent this by devising means for having it spent in the town, than to encourage the location of a factory with a payroll of a like amount. It should be the first duty of a commercial organization to protect its home industries, and when strangers come there this is successful they will be more likely to seek the place as suitable for the establishment of some business enterprise.

Home Trade Idea Not New.

Day after day the people are awakening to the fact that the only way the evils of trusts can be combated is by an adherence to the home trade doctrine. It is nothing new. It was the sentiment that prompted the founders of our government to sound the clarion of Liberty from the summit of Bunker Hill. Then, it was the forcing of a people dependent on another government to pay an unjust tribute for necessities of life. To-day it is one class of people of a nation, and the greatest nation on earth, to compel the other classes to pay unjust tribute in a commercial way. The wrong was righted by blood in the first case; the wrong can be righted in the present case by the people without resorting to serious trouble, by merely exercising their prerogatives and the means that lie in their power to prevent the concentration of great wealth in the big financial centers by keeping their surplus earnings at home. It is the draining the dollars from the country to the large cities that assist in building up the great combine, the great trusts, which are manipulated to the detriment of the people of the country at large. It does not require special legislation for the farmer to buy flour made in his home mill; to use other products made in his county or state, or to patronize the merchants of his home town.

Value of Good Roads.

Good roads leading to a town indicate the progressiveness of the citizens of the community. Invariably poor roads mean indifference and lack of confidence in the stability of the town.
